Our editor is an avid reader and constantly seeks to stay on top of her craft. "I had the pleasure of working with Jan on e-commerce projects online where her skills at problem-solving and communication were critical in providing excellent customer service and content. I gave her the challenge of eliciting the most relevant information from lengthy technical manuals to explain product features of specialized photographic equipment in a compelling way. Jan came up with creative solutions that were comprehensive and enhanced product listings. All the content was SEO and of high quality. Her emphasis on customer experience enabled us to have content descriptions of products that were more customer-focused. She described technology in simple and appealing terms and gave suggestions on visual presentation to improve the user experience. Jan had a fast turnaround and is an excellent team member and pleasant to work with. I recommend her unequivocally as a positive asset to any organization she works for."
